

Just to let you know...

The Battle of Bosworth

This week the children were taught about the battle of Bosworth. They were lucky enough to meet Richard III, Henry VII and Lord Stanley who recounted the battle from their own perspectives. The children have started to write their own recount about the battle taking into consideration all three views.

In maths this week we have continued to look at addition and subtraction. We started with mental strategies then began to look at more formal written methods. The children then used these methods to help them solve word problems involving addition and subtraction.
Please remind your children to keep practising those times tables—we have a test each week.

HOMEWORK
There is a balancing the books task for your child to complete at home, This will involve the children reading the task carefully and putting to use, the addition and subtraction work they've done this week.
Please continue to listen to your child read and spend time discussing the text and any unfamiliar words.
Remember to choose a new task to complete, from the front of reading records too.
