Curriculum

We have all enjoyed a great start to our new topic, with your children getting a great deal from their 'annexing' experience. They really began to take onboard feelings and a sense of displacement and powerlessness.

This week we have worked on our 'flat evacuee', wartime memories, maps and talked about the causes of WW2. All children now have their own ration books.

In maths we have looked at properties of large numbers, revisited place value and measurement (with practical work in our Victory Gardens)
