

Just to let you know...

In English this week the children turned their adventure stories into play scripts. They focused on all of the key features, including: a title, the act and scene, a setting description, stage directions and speaking parts for each of their characters. The children have also been designing a set for their adventure story animations. If you have a digital camera that you feel comfortable sending to school with your child, please have them bring this in on Monday along with any other props they may need.

Spellings: There were no spellings this week. Next week we will be focusing on homophones.

Group 1: threw, through, waste, waist, weather, whether, where, were, wear, there, their, they're

Group 2: where, were, wear, their, they're, there, who, how, no, know

Dear Parents,

We hope you are enjoying the sunshine and are making the most of the beautiful weather. Please remind your child to put sun cream on in the morning and to bring a sun hat with them to school.

Next Thursday and Friday (26th and 27th of June) are both INSET days and Monday (1st July) is our Midsummer holiday; we hope you have a lovely long weekend!

Love from
Heather, Henry and Alison

In maths this week the children revised fractions, decimals and percentages. They practised finding fractions of amounts and converting between the three. We also looked at interpreting data and reading graphs.
