

Just to let you know...

Maths

Code cracking! Keep your valuables safe as our fantastic Year 5's have been hard at work cracking tricky word problem codes. The children were challenged to read and interpret a variety of problems, making decisions on the usefulness of each piece of information, until they were able to crack the code.

Homework

TEA STAINING!

We would like the children to tea stain a piece of A4 paper. This will then be used to write up their Howard Carter diary entries. This must be done with adult supervision.

Please can you also collect and bring in any materials that might help us in our egg dropping investigation on Monday. We will be looking at materials that might protect a falling egg. Bubble wrap or cotton wool would be great.

Literacy

Howard Carter was the man who discovered Tutankhamun's burial site. The children have heard the story of the tombs discovery and have had a go at imagining they were in Carter's shoes. We asked them to think about how he might have felt as he uncovered one of the greatest modern archaeological finds. They have then written a diary entry explaining the find and his feelings.

Notices.

There will be no group reading on the last week of term.

We have a half day, finishing at 1.45 on the last day of term.

We have a church service on Thursday afternoon.

We will be making our annual Easter gardens on Thursday so please come prepared for that.

Spellings

Group 1— neighbour, weightlessness, complain, escape, outweighed, deflated, arrangement, convey

Group 2— weigh, eight, concave, trail, array, mistake