

Topic Fun

The children have loved making their own junk model dinosaurs this week. They have been thinking about habitats and how dinosaurs adapted to their surroundings. We measured dinosaurs in our lovely information books and used this information to make block graphs.

How many different ways can show a half? What could you use or draw?

How many different triangles can you find? What makes them the same and how are they different?

Sort your toys. How did you do it and why? Could you do it differently?

This week

These are the questions we have been thinking about this week. How many of them can you answer? Some of them are about what you think, and some have more specific answers.

What do carnivores, herbivores and omnivores eat?

What does a herbivore or a carnivore look like? What makes them different? What animals can you think of that are herbivores or carnivores?

What would you have if you could keep any animal as a pet? Why would you choose that one? Sheena would have a micro pig and Rosie would have a goat.....

Dinosaurs

I'm bored box

Build a time machine. You could make a little hand held one, or a big one like the tardis you have to get into!
You could go back in time to the dinosaurs, but there are lots of other exciting things to visit too. Tell us about your adventures—you could take your family along for the ride!

Things to remember...

We are walking to the Chancies (whatever the weather!) first thing Tuesday 7th May. Please make sure your child has appropriate clothing and footwear in school.

Please return your Natural History Museum forms if you haven't done so already. Thank you for all offers of help, we will be confirming with you next week when we have all our numbers.

Nuts and bolts.

We have been practising spelling: would, should, could and learning how to write wouldn't, shouldn't, couldn't.

Writing Corner

Look at the Natural History Museum website. Choose a dinosaur and make some notes about it. Don't forget to pick out the key information and use the headings to help you.

Friday 3rd May 2013