

Just to let you know...

Thank You!

Thank you to all the parents that brought children back to sing carols to the elderly folk at Addison Court on Thursday evening. We recognised that it was a tricky time and so appreciated your support.

Thank you too, for all your generous gifts and cards. We

During this last week of term, we have enjoyed learning about the Christmas story and hearing about how the different characters may have felt. We have been working creatively on a range of different poetry and the children have produced beautiful poems linking ideas of Advent, light and the good news of Jesus' birth.

Important Information

All teacher's emails will be down over the Christmas holidays, as we are migrating to a new system. Please do check the website as this will tell you when everything is working again. We hope to be back on line for the start of term.

There is an INSET day on Tuesday 5th Jan and children start back on Wednesday 6th.

Home tasks over the holidays

All classes will be involved in a series of lessons, learning about rhythm and will be designing, making and using percussion instruments. Please could all children bring in something suitable, eg plastic margarine containers, ice-cream tubs, small buckets etc. Feel free to be imaginative. Continued reading and oral comprehension would be a great thing to encourage, along with revision of multiplication tables over the holidays.
